

Zippers Showcase

Zipper Functions

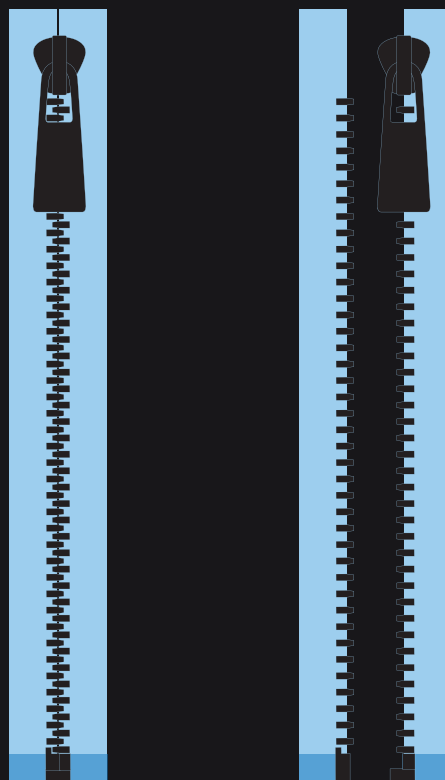

Closed End

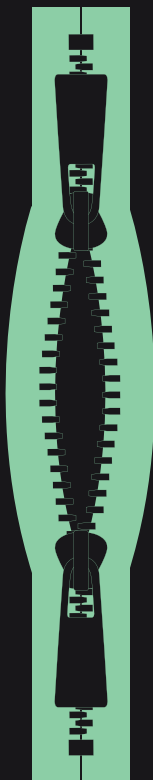

Zipper has a stopper at the bottom so it can't be completely separated. Generally found on jean and trouser flies, skirts, dresses, footwear and bags.

Open End

Zipper separates when fully opened so the garment can be removed. Used on jackets, coats and hoodies.

Zipper Functions

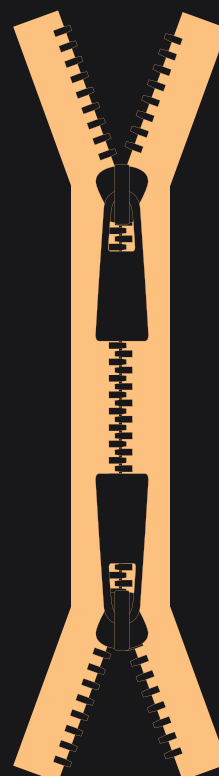

'O' Style

Features two pullers that lie head-to-head when closed and are pulled apart to open the zip.

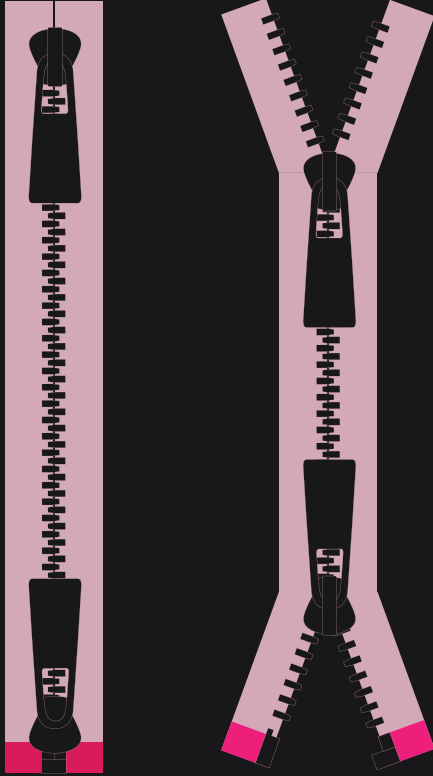

Features two bottom stops.

'X' Style

Two pullers that are located at opposite ends of the zipper when closed. The zip opens when the pullers are pulled towards each other.

Zipper Functions

Two-way

Two-way open end zips have two pullers located at opposite ends. The garment will open when both pullers are pulled to the bottom.

Slider

Auto-lock

The slider will lock in position and will not move unless a force is applied to the puller.

Semi Auto-lock

The slider will lock in position when the puller is lowered and is flat against the zipper. When the puller is lifted, the slider can move.

Non-lock

The slider has no locking function and can move freely regardless of the puller position.
